

Glimpses of His Kingdom

December 2011

a news update on the ministry of Campus Christian Fellowship at Appalachian State University

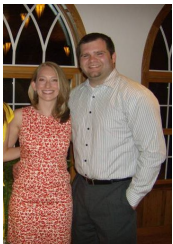

Staff: Jim Musser, Danielle Boyter, Grant Foster, Marianna Musser

MERRY CHRISTMAS!!!

CCF Alumni...Making an Impact in the World

The measure of our success is not how many students we have involved during a particular year or, necessarily, how many conversions or baptisms we have. Rather, we measure our success by what our alumni are doing long after they graduate. Do they continue to live for the Lord and impact the world around them for His Kingdom?

Below are updates on some of our alumni and what they are doing now. We are excited how they are growing and continuing to follow hard after Jesus!

Adam and Jessica (Byerly) Hatton (2006) met while in college. They both served as student interns with CCF. After graduating, they married and both enrolled in seminary in Texas. Now Adam is a youth minister in Lenoir and Jessica works as a counselor for hospice.

Jamie Hoyle (2007) graduated with a degree in accounting and is CPA with an accounting firm in Hickory. She has a passion for youth and has been a youth leader in her church since graduating. She has also traveled to Honduras several times on mission trips and serves as Treasurer on the CCF Board of Directors.

Adam McCain (2007) majored in radio broadcasting and served as the soundman for the CCF large group meetings. He is now a DJ for a Christian radio station in Winston-Salem. Having traveled to South Africa in 2007 with CCF, he returned last month to spend time working with the same missionaries. Adam also serves on the CCF Board of Directors.

Edward Ponton (2008) became a Christian his freshman year in college and immediately got involved with CCF. He went on to become a student leader and eventually served on the CCF staff for two years. Now he is working in his own business on the Outer Banks serving tourists and helping lead in a church in Corolla. He is also spending several months each winter working with the two missionaries in South Africa whom he met while on a mission trip there with CCF. Ed also recently joined the CCF Board.

Daniel and Rebecca Day (2009) are on staff with AXIS in Colorado Springs, CO. AXIS is a ministry that seeks to engage youth in interpreting culture and media through the lens of the Scriptures and a Christian worldview. The Days were married while in college. Daniel led the CCF worship band and he and Rebecca were also small group leaders.

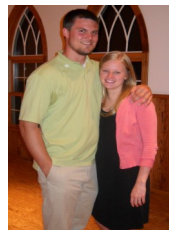

Rebecca Steele (2011) grew up as the daughter of a minister and came to App with a deep faith. She quickly became involved with CCF early in her freshman year. She served as a small group leader and earned a degree in education. She is serving a two-year term as a teacher at an international school in Bolivia.

Kim Taylor (2011) came to be a true follower of Jesus during her sophomore year and developed a passion for reaching people with the Gospel. She served as a leader in our Social ministry and as a small group leader. After graduating, she is spending a year in Uganda as a missionary.

Charles and Betsy (Sigmon) Draper (2011) came to App dating each other, but not knowing Jesus. They each surrendered their lives to the Lord during their freshman year. They both graduated with education degrees, married, and are public school teachers near Hickory. They began to feel the call to missions during their second trip with CCF to South Africa and are planning to do full-time mission work in the future, perhaps in South Africa.

South Africa Trip, Dec. 18-Jan. 9

Please be in prayer for the team of nine going to Cape Town, South Africa for three weeks to work in two slum communities outside the city. We will be working with kids, teens, and the elderly, as well as worshiping with several local churches and visiting the homes of South African Christians.